

About the authors

assoc. prof. Wojciech FILL, PhD

Professor at the Department of Administration at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Applied Sciences in Nowy Sącz. Doctor of Laws, specializing in economic, administrative and financial law. Deputy notary and tax adviser, experienced university lecturer. Author of several dozen scientific publications, research opinions, and many presentations delivered at national and international scientific conferences.

Anna Xymena MAJKRZAK, PhD

Lecturer at the Department of Entrepreneurship and Innovation at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Applied Sciences in Nowy Sącz. Doctor of Economics. Graduate of Financial Management course at the – National Louis University Higher School of Business in Nowy Sącz and International Economic Relations at the University of Economics in Krakow. Anna Xymena Majkrzak has many years of experience in public administration and the private sector, including managerial positions in international retail corporations. Her research interests focus on consumer behaviour as well as quality and development of e-commerce in business.

Teresa MYJAK, PhD

Assistant professor at the Department of Management at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Applied Sciences in Nowy Sącz. Doctor of Economics in the field of management sciences. Her research interests focus on human resources management (including innovations in the human resources management process), human capital management, knowledge management, strategic management, enterprise management, organization and management, education, and professional work. Author and co-author of over 120 publications.

Marzena PISZCZEK, PhD

Assistant professor at the Department of Public Finance at the Cracow University of Economics. Interests: corporate governance, new public management, debt management, public sector efficiency, budget reforms, budgeting methods; co-author of the performance budget for Poland. Cooperation and practice – main projects: implementation of new budgeting methods at local government and state level, consolidation of the Polish chemical and banking sectors, implementation of economic standards for the nuclear sector in Poland. Marzena Piszczek has held a number of offices: president, vice president of the management board, chairwoman of the supervisory boards of major public companies in Poland. She has collaborated with ICMA, USAID, and the Open Society Institute. She worked as a budget expert for the Chancellery of the Prime Minister of the Republic of Poland and the Chancellery of the Senate of the Republic of Poland.

Barbara POREBSKA, PhD

PhD in social sciences in the field of economics and finance. Practitioner with over 25 years of experience working in a local government unit in the field of organizational and financial management of educational units and issues related to public finance. Director of the educational unit responsible for education management and implementation of the education budget in the local government unit. Creator and coordinator of educational projects co-financed by the EU under the European Social Fund. Trainer for courses in the field of planning educational expenditure with the purpose of increasing the effectiveness of public funds management in local governments and creating the organization of work for educational units. Certified Expert in Education Development and an expert in the national forum for local government officials in the field of education management and financing. Adviser to local government units in the field of organization and optimization of expenditures in education. Author of several peer-reviewed scientific publications on the legal and financial conditions applicable to local government units and their impact on the use of EU funds, as well as a publications on performance budgeting as an element of the transformation process in the management of public finances of local government units.

assoc. prof. Janusz REICHEL, PhD

Currently employed as a professor at the University of Lodz, Poland and as a visiting professor in Universidad de Jaén, Spain. He is a researcher and an expert in projects, programmes and assessment procedures e.g. 7PR (European Commission and AECEA), Leonardo da Vinci (National Agency), Fund for Civic Initiatives (Polish Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs) and other; a member of Technical Committee in Polish Committee for Standardization working on ISO 26000 Guidance. His research interests include social and environmental aspects of management, including corporate social responsibility (CSR) and business ethics, as well as management of non-governmental organizations and social economy entities. The separate field of interest focuses on the nature of money and new local money systems (like LETS). He has participated in many international projects both as a project manager and participant/executor, including Erasmus+ and Horizon 2020. His international cooperation also includes guest lecture tours as part of the Erasmus Staff Mobility program and visiting professor position in Universidad de Jaen, Spain (2024-2025). In 2017, thanks to the project led by Janusz Reichel, the University of Lodz received an award in the EduInspiracje 2016 competition for "innovative approach to teaching and effectiveness in using project results", for the project "Homoresponsabilis in the globalized World". He is the author, co-author and editor of seven books and the author of over 100 scientific and popular science articles.